- Type a word or phrase into the search box to begin your research. Search results will automatically be sorted by format, such as magazine articles, academic journals, and more.
- Or use “Browse All 333 Topics” at the bottom right of the home page to select a specific medical topic.
- Click on the title of an article, and the “Explore” column next to the article has “More Like This” or “Related Subjects” to expand a search.
- “Topic Finder” finds target words from the best results in a search to help locate additional resources.
- Click on “Tiles” or “Wheels” graphical displays to locate the most commonly used terms to narrow search results to the documents also containing that subject or term.
- “Cite” on the top right toolbar correctly formats a search result to export into various bibliographic tools.

In a book, chapter, or article page, use “Highlights and Notes” to identify important parts in the content by using the highlighting tool and add typed notes to complement your research. Email, download, or print your saved “Highlights and Notes” before ending your session.
